Infiniscope Digital Learning Experiences Excite Librarians at American Library Association National Conference

The NASA Exploration Connection team shared the Infiniscope Education Portal in the NASA Booth at the National Library Association Conference in Chicago.

More than 100 librarians signed up for the Infiniscope Teaching Network resulting in over 378 informal and formal educators joining in the first four months since it launched!

The librarians were very enthusiastic about promoting STEM computer-based activities that:

- Provide science learning using NASA data;
- Are free and available via web browser (no download needed);
- Include adaptable informal & formal lesson plans; and
- Are gamified to engage their audiences in learning while having fun!
